The PTO program addresses the changing philosophies required for effective policing in America today. It is specifically mentioned in the President's Task Force on 21st Century Policing as a potential model to teach new officers how to think proactively with their community through the use of adult learning strategies. The program is adaptable to teach and evaluate officers based on your organizational needs.

Our trainers are specially trained and certified as post-academy trainers in the PTO program. PTOs are trained to use and teach community policing strategies, emotional intelligence, and problem-based learning. The PTO Certification is a challenging course that teaches program mechanics, training foundations, organizational leadership, and personal accountability through community learning.
